Rising Toll on Migrants Leaves Europe in Crisis; 900 May Be Dead at Sea

Leaders Convening to Plan Response as Mediterranean Influx Grows

By ERIC MARRAKEY

ROME — European leaders were conferring on Monday about a humanitarian crisis in the Mediter-ran, as estimates that as many as 900 people had died off the Libyan coast this weekend prompted calls for a new approach to the mounting number of refugees coming from Africa and the Middle East.

Even as efforts continued to devise a new ap-roach to the Mediterranean refugee crisis, the F.B.I. was increasingly concerned about this model of radicalization. (
